The world has been radically transformed since the seventies, especially in relation to the expansion of political liberties and the openness of the political systems to direct the growing and complex political diversity of the contemporary society.

The National Electoral Institute is an active member within the international network of bodies and institutions working in favor of electoral democracy.

INE's role is also oriented towards promoting a wider collaboration program within different electoral democracy areas: electoral observation, technical assistance missions, research and currently, by offering an international training program.

Reciprocally, INE benefits from the international field through the promotion of international horizontal cooperation and from the knowledge gained of learning about other practices through the exchange of experiences; also, by participating and generating knowledge through the discussion and debate forums with avant-garde matters, along with challenges faced by electoral democracies.

This Electronic Newsletter serves two purposes: on one hand, presents the main activities carried out by INE on an international basis; on the other, it provides information related to avant-garde electoral matters that are of main interest to the Institute.

Thus, this Newsletter edition of INE International contains the following sections:

- CICIE'S training programs
- International Cooperation
- Suggested publications

Internship on

Political parties' prerogatives and oversight of their finances

Officials of the National Office of Electoral Processes (ONPE) from Peru

From March 15 to 17, took place the exchange on political parties, candidacies and campaign expenditures with officials of the National Office of Electoral Processes of Peru (ONPE) of Peru and officials of the National Electoral Institute of Mexico (INE), directly with the areas of the Executive Direction of Prerogatives of the Political Parties and the Oversight Technical Unit.

ONPE's interest in the exchange is aiming at the presentation to the National Assembly of a political electoral reform on the prerogatives of political parties. Its interest has as precedent May 2016 when INE organized the "Forum on Party Money and Campaign Audit: An Inter-American Dialogue", when INE presented its Integral Oversight System (SIF, for its initials in Spanish) to Latin America and international organizations; at this moment, the National Office of Electoral Processes (ONPE) of Peru, expressed its interest in knowing in detail the Mexican experience.

The delegation was represented by:

Luis Brussy Barboza Dávila, Manager in charge of Supervision of Political Parties Funds;

- José Roberto Mostajo Elguera, Head of Legal and Regulatory Area of Political Parties Funds in the Management of Supervision of Political Parties Funds;
- Marco Antonio Basauri Becerra, Deputy Manager of Administrative Advisory Services in the Legal Advisory Department, and
- Carlos Eduardo Vargas León, Deputy Manager in the Technical Assistance Department.
- Mr. Luis Barboza and Mr. Roberto Mostajo have participated in previous programs developed by the International Center for Electoral Training and Research (CICIE).

Did you know?

In Peru, all public institutions have legislative initiative in the field of their attributions.

While the ONPE has legislative initiative, the JNE exercises controls on all administrative acts :

Modifications, revises, suspends, verify or register, including the bills or regulations presented by ONPE.

The agenda consisted of addressing the following topics:

- ❖ Comparison of the political electoral systems of Peru and Mexico and their electoral institutions' attributions. In this session was emphasized that in Peru there are three institutions: The National Jury of Elections (JNE), which registers political parties and movements; the ONPE, which is responsible for granting, and monitoring the prerogatives of political parties and the National Registry of Identification and Civil Status (RENIEC), which registers and prepares the voter registration and voting lists and certifies the adherents signed lists, required to form a movement or political party.
- ❖ INE's presentation regarding political parties' registration and prerogatives, candidacies and electoral campaigns in Mexico; including access to media: radio and TV; the technological platform created by INE to send the material to the media broadcasters; as well as the platform for media monitoring the spots transmissions.
- ❖ Presentation by INE on the mechanisms to control and oversight the political parties' resources and presentation of the electronic platform Integral Oversight System (SIF); subject of the greatest interest of the Peruvian delegation.

Some differences between the two countries on these topics:

Topic	Peru	Mexico
Political parties	25 national parties, 190 regional movements and local political organizations (Which are constituted only for electoral processes).	9 national political parties and 89 National Political Associations (APN).

Registration of political parties	Requirements: Founding Act, list of adherents (at least 4% of the valid votes in the last election), minutes of constitution of its committees (in at least 1/3 of the 65 provinces, located in at least 2/3 of the 16 departments). The party's registration is canceled if they do not reach at least 6 representatives in Congress by more than one constituency, or they do not obtain 5% of the valid votes in the last election, or by not participating in two consecutive general elections.	Requirements: statutes and action program, to gather 3,000 militants in at least 20 of the 32 states or 200 militants in 200 of the 300 electoral districts, the number of militants should not be less than 0.26% of the national electoral registration roll. The reasons for losing registration are: not participating in an ordinary electoral process, not obtaining at least 3% of the valid votes in the last election, not complying with the registration requirements, by consideration of INE's General Council, self declaring dissolved or by merging with another party.
Media access	The ONPE reviews the content of the information and reviews that the media business provide the same prices to all those who purchase spaces on radio and TV.	INE administers media access in the State Time: so it is in charge to set the transmission orders for electoral institutions (Electoral Court and the Electoral Prosecutors for Electoral Crimes) and political parties spots. In relation to the material that is sent, INE only reviews the technical aspects but not the content.

The mechanisms implemented by INE which were of most interest for the Peruvian delegation are:

1. INE manages the political parties public funds and provides monthly payments for ordinary spending; so, when the General Council imposes an economic penalty, these are deducted from their ministrations.
2. The formation of alliances or coalitions in Mexico, which must be registered at INE through a legal document, in which the political parties that integrate it, must specify: if it is for an electoral process, or electoral districts where it will apply; or for a specific candidacy and it regulates in which percentage will contribute each member of the coalition. In this way, it is ensured that the spending limits, the distribution of funding and access to the media are met.
3. Regarding the Integral Oversight System, the Peruvian delegation appreciated the program that the platform allows candidates, anywhere in the country can have access to record their expenditures, contracts and the corresponding reports; in addition to facilitating in one part the work of the authority to carry out the accounting balance review.
4. The mechanism developed by the UTF to communicate closely with political parties or candidates to provide them with training or to exchange information on the causes of inconsistencies, to generate trust among the actors and to contribute to the best rendering and transparency on the use of public resources.

This international cooperation program was very positively valued by the Peruvian delegation and its impact has been immediate, as can be seen in the proposals that have already been sent to the Legislature of Peru and which contains several of the topics addressed in these sessions.

PASANTÍA

INTERCAMBIO PARA EL CONTROL
DEL FINANCIAMIENTO POLÍTICO

The internship was established as a result of the close collaboration set between INE and the High Electoral Tribunal of Brazil in the past years and gets its consolidation through the signature of the Collaboration Agreement signed on November 8, 2016 by Dr. Lorenzo Cordova Vianello, president of the National Electoral Institute (INE) and the Magistrate President of the Supreme Electoral Tribunal (TSE) of Brazil, Gilmar Mendes in the framework of their participation in the USA electoral process observation in the offices, and as honor witnesses the representatives of the Organization of American States (OAS). The Agreement provides a legal instrument to support the cooperation activities in the administration of elections through the exchange of information and experiences based on mutual respect and reciprocity.

In April 3-5, the International Center for Electoral Training and Research (CICIE) of the Coordination of International Affairs of the National Electoral Institute organized two simultaneous internships: the Internship on Political Parties Funds Control and Oversight and the second one on the Biometrics for the Electoral Registry.

The members of the Brazilian delegation who participated in two topics: Control and control of political financing and Biometrics of electoral registration are:

- Dr. Mauricio Melo, Director General.
- Dr. Ciro Leal, International Advisor
- Dr. Eron Pessoa, Electoral and Partisan Accounts Review Advisor.
- Dr. Giuseppe Janino, Secretary of Information Technology.
- Sr. Marcio Clayton do Nascimento, Head of the Accountability Automation Session.

The Brazilian delegation expressed their interest in those topics since the political context in the country was aiming to reform the electoral legislation, precisely in the oversight of political campaigns and foreseeing that the TSE will get a new attribution to issue the national and electoral ID.

Did you know?
The High Court of Brazil designed its own electronic voting machine, which has a finger print reader to identify the voter.

Regarding the issues presented by the INE, the Brazilian delegation found substantial points of comparison within the systems of prerogatives to political parties and control, recognizing that such systems would guarantee a rigorous control in the following aspects within their electoral system:

•Brazil has more than 5570 cities that transmit radio and television signals. In this regard was of great interest the INE's system for the reception and transmission order for radio and TV material (SIATE) for political parties and electoral authorities considered to achieve an optimal and controlled registration of political party campaigns.

Brazil conducts the control of candidates' resources after the elections. Its system divides inspection times between elected candidates (30 days after the election) and non-elected (45 days after the election). In order to do so, INE's Integral Oversight System, which homologates the audit in a single period for all candidates, was of great interest to the Brazilian delegation on aspects that facilitate the collection of financial documents that support the legitimacy of the resources (public and private funds).

Brazil has a national ID and the TSE's voters ID has no special features or security locks. Brazilians may present one of several IDs to be able to vote: passport, national ID or the voting card; in this regard, they showed particular interest in the voter's credential issued by the INE, the citizens registration process the safe locks in order to avoid duplication of identities or frauds.

CICIE'S TRAINING IMPACT

We share the appreciation letter addressed by the head of the newly created National Commission for the Modernization of Elections and Justice of Cameroon for the collaboration received from INE through CICIE's programs.

I am very happy to inform you that I was appointed Chairman of the National Commission on Electoral Modernization and Justice in Cameroon following a Presidential decree and Senate confirmation some two weeks ago. Indeed I must say our work and reports made following our missions to INE paid off...

As the work seem to be enormous, I could not have lost sight to recognize the great contribution INE made for this to happen. The mandate of the Commission is 4 years renewable and charged with modernizing election administration in Cameroon, working closely with ELECAM though we are two separate agencies.

I have been very busy these few days to secure and set up our offices, start administrative procedures for budgeting, and also to give appointed secretariat staff guidelines for recruiting staff and developing our strategic and operational plans for this year.

January 2014

June 2014

September 2015

I am very interested, if we have the time, to request a mission to INE... if our budget is approved, I may order a mission to INE to study certain aspects of interest that fall within our mandate.

Dear Deyanira, permit me to express my heartfelt appreciation through you to INE and the International Affairs Coordinator for all the support.

Election administration in Cameroon will witness a drastic change from a legal and institutional stand point. I commit to work tirelessly for this with your help.

Please accept once more the expression of my deepest appreciation for your support.

Yours sincerely,
Atem Oben Henry E.

I. International Forums

International Forum "The Independence of Electoral Bodies" Tunisia

Tunisia

The National Electoral Institute received an invitation from the Director of the Venice Commission to participate in this regional forum. This event took place from 8 to 9 February in the city of Tunis.

The institutional participation was represented by the Electoral Councilor, Mr. Arturo Sánchez.

This event was co-organized by the Venice Commission, the United Nations Development Program and the Organization of Arab Electoral Organizations (ArabEMBs). This organization is a regional network of electoral management bodies of the Arab States, which began its creation in April 2014. The establishment of the organization went through several stages, the first being a consensus reached by the Arab States to create an Arab regional cooperation network in a regional session during a global conference of the United Nations European Commission - Joint Force on Electoral Assistance (EC-UNDP JTF).

The INE's international participation in this type of event has been the result of the cooperation and linkage that has been held by the Council of Europe since 1994.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION ACTIVITIES JANUARY-MARCH 2017

International Conference. Financing of Political Parties Tunisia

The National Electoral Institute received an invitation from the Director of the Venice Commission to participate in the International Conference. The Financing of Political Parties. This event took place on 28 and 29 March the city of Tunis.

This conference is co-organized by the United Nations Development Program (UNDP), the Independent Independent Higher Electoral Entity of Tunisia and the Venice Commission.

The institutional participation was represented by the Electoral Councilor, Dr. Ciro Murayama Rendón, whose participation took place in two moments: on March 28 the presentation referred to the financing system of political parties in Mexico and on the 29th presented the System of Control and Oversight of the Resources of Political Parties in Mexico, emphasizing the Comprehensive System of Control (SIF).

Tunisia is currently undergoing a process of debate and reformulation of a political and institutional agenda for the preparation of political-electoral reforms that will guarantee the transparency of the country's political life. It seeks a legal reformulation on the subject of financing and control of the resources of political parties. Parliamentary debates on local and regional election bills have put the need for the creation of a public institution responsible for overseeing the financing of the election campaign or even politics in general.

The organization of this International Conference is part of the dynamics of the debates on the importance of transparency and accountability in Tunisia. It is for this reason that the main objective of this conference is to know, in a comparative international perspective, the models, principles, techniques, norms and good practices of the financing and control of the resources of the parties in electoral campaigns.

Representatives of parliament, political parties, government bodies, magistrates, members of independent bodies, universities, and national and international experts participated in the Conference.

It is pertinent to note that the National Electoral Institute is the only Latin America institution invited to participate as an international expert.

Presidential Elections in Ecuador

II. Observation mission

Presidential Elections of the Republic of Ecuador First and Second Round

The National Electoral Institute participated as an international observer in the Presidential Elections first and second round of the Republic of Ecuador. The INE was invited by the Inter-American Union of Electoral Bodies and the World Association of Electoral Bodies (AWEB) to participate in these missions.

The President Councilor, Dr. Lorenzo Córdova Vianello, participated in the UNIORE observation mission in the First Electoral round.

The electoral processes were held on February 5th and April 2nd of this year.

The two programs included briefings on the most important features of Ecuador's political-electoral system, as well as a meeting with representatives of political parties and, finally, observation on the Election Day on different polling stations within the Province of Pichincha.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION ACTIVITIES JANUARY-MARCH 2017

It is interesting to highlight the following characteristics of the electoral model of Ecuador:

- Voting is compulsory for citizens aged 18-65, and optional for 16- and 17-year-old citizens and adults over 65.
- The participation of the Ecuadorian armed forces plays a fundamental role in the electoral process, since they not only make the transfer of electoral materials, but also watch every moment of the electoral day, being present at each polling station. Its presence provides great confidence to the public.

- Electoral polling booth. In each electoral precinct they have a preferential voting booth for people with disabilities or the elderly. Each polling station is divided by gender: there is a booth for men and another for women.

- Household Vote. Ecuadorian legislation allows the vote from home for citizens with a disability or is an adult over 65 years of age.
- Prison Vote. Ecuadorian law grants the right to vote to prisoners who hasn't a verdict.

INTERNATIONAL BINDING AND COOPERATION BETWEEN THE NATIONAL ELECTORAL INSTITUTE AND THE REPUBLIC OF ECUADOR

- Prior to these elections, Institute officials have participated in 11 observation missions in the framework of electoral processes held in Ecuador since 1997, including the last general elections held on February 17, 2013, and the most recent elections of February 24 2014, when local authorities were elected.
- In addition, INE has shared its experience with the Ecuadorian counterpart through 6 technical assistance exercises, carried out between 2004 and 2013, which have addressed issues such as electoral reform, training and civic education, political parties financing and control of resources, as well as the transmission of electoral results, among others.
- At the same time, this Institute has shared its experience with the electoral bodies of Ecuador, the CNE and the Contentious Electoral Tribunal, through its International Center for Electoral Training and Research (CICIE). In this regard, it is noted that officials of the Ecuadorian electoral authorities have participated in 8 international workshops, 2 specialized courses and two Inter-American Conferences organized by the CICIE of the INE.

MEXICANS VOTING ABROAD

Electronic Newsletter

International Newsletter, #15

Online Electronic Vote for Mexican Residents Abroad

- In an extraordinary session of the National Electoral Institute's General Council on March 15, 2017, the report on the development progress of the Electronic Voting System by the Internet for Mexican Residents Abroad was received.

- During that session, the Electoral Councilors stated that voting through electronic channels is a right recognized by law, so the Voting Commission of Mexicans Residing Abroad continues to work to develop an electronic voting system to guaranteeing, whoever issues the vote, is the Mexican citizen residing abroad, who has the right to do so; that the Mexican citizen residing abroad can not issue more than one vote electronically; that the suffrage will be free and secret, as well as guaranteeing its effective emission, transmission, reception and computation, so that it is to be applied in a posterior election after the 2018 electoral process.
- Councilor Enrique Andrade, President of the Temporary Committee of the Voting of Mexican Residents Abroad, considered it important to promote the political participation of Mexicans living in other countries.
- “The vote will give you a voice in the decisions of your state and your country”
- He affirmed that the Institute ratifies its commitment to Mexicans who live beyond our borders, so that "within the legal framework, with responsibility and guaranteeing certainty at all times, it will be submitted in a timely manner for the Electoral Process of 2017- 2018, a reinforced model of distance voting, making the greatest efforts to simplify procedures and requirements making the model more agile, efficient and simple so that the migrant compatriots can participate politically.

Meeting between Organizations of the Civil Society Supporting Mexican Migrants and the National Commission of Vigilance of the National Electoral Institute.

On March 22, a meeting was held between Civil Society Organizations in Support of Mexican Migrants and the National Monitoring Commission of the National Electoral Institute.

At this meeting, the organizations were able to dialogue with the representatives of the political parties before the National Monitoring Commission and suggested some changes to the ID issuing model, in order to facilitate this process for citizens.

Some of the mentioned suggestions were:

- 1) The possibility of presenting two witnesses who prove the legal personality of the citizen if he/she hasn't means to prove identity or address in the US, as it is accepted in Mexican territory;
- 2) Grant a reprint of the ID to Vote Abroad to those citizens who are already registered in the Electoral Register without presenting requirements;
- 3) That the activation of the voting card, takes place at the moment in which the citizen receives it in her/his address;
- 4) Remove the presentation of proof of address as a requirement to obtain the Voting ID card and instead, use the figure "under oath to tell the truth".

For INE, the participation of organized civil society is very important. Therefore, this type of meeting is fundamental, since it allows us to know the perspective of key stakeholders in the vote from abroad needs.

In order to strengthen ties of cooperation with these actors, the Institute will sign collaboration agreements with some organizations for the promotion of registration to get the voting ID card and voting abroad.

If you are part of an organization and you are interested in knowing more about these collaboration agreements, write to oveme@ine.mx.
